

Contents

	Abstract	ii
	Frontispiece	iii
	Contents	iv
	Acknowledgments	vii
	Definitions and Conventions	viii
I	Introduction	1
1-1	National Policy Context	3
1-2	A Working Definition of the Term 'media studies'	7
1-3	Media Studies as a 'Bellwether'	9
1-4	The UK Higher Education Context for Media Studies	11
1-5	The Nature and Scale of Undergraduate Media Studies Provision	15
1-6	Overview of Conceptual and Methodological Framework	27
1-7	Research Questions	28
2	Literature Review
2-1	Introduction to the Literature Review	31
2-2	Contemporary Media Studies in Higher Education	32
2-3	Media Studies as an Academic Subject	35
2-4	The Emergence of Critical University Studies	49
3	Conceptual Framework	55
3-1	Media Studies: Social Construction and Social Practices	56
3-2	Media Studies: Discourses	60
3-3	Media Studies: Power	62
4	Research Methodology
4-1	Methodological Framework	65
4-2	Approach to Discourse Analysis	73
4-3	Relationship Between Discourse Analysis and Critical University Studies	79
4-4	Selection of Public Discourse Data	80
4-5	Selection of Participants	82
4-6	The Interview Process	85
4-7	Consideration of Alternative Research Methods	89
4-8	Ethical Considerations	91
4-9	Interviews: Reflexivity	95
4-10	Transcripts: Reflexivity	99
5	Data Analysis – Media Studies: Discourses of identity
5-1	Introduction	101
5-2	Participant Identity: "I'm probably quite an odd case"	103
5-3	A Rationale for Media Studies: "Quite a tricky question"	113
5-4	Vocational: "Okay, the V-word"	127
5-5	Employability: "A Weasel Word"	135
5-6	Media Industries: "These are the skills that we require"	143
5-7	Transferable Skills: "Killed Bin Laden"	151
6	Data Analysis – Media Studies: Discourses of Academic Practice
6-1	Introduction	157
6-2	Course Design: "How do you decide what you chuck out?"	159
6-3	Quality Assurance: Aliens, Ghosts and Roundheads	165
6-4	Theory and Practice: "The Woodwork Masters"	177
6-5	Assessment: "Here's your degree, darling, go"	197
6-6	Collegiality: "I'm sorry. I'm far too busy"	205
6-7	Two Worlds: "I call it reality"	211
6-8	Sector Variations: "Choking over their sherry"	217

7	Data Analysis – Media Studies: Discourses of Public Policy
7-1	Introduction	225
7-2	Recruitment and Admissions: “Because it’s much more fun”	227
7-3	Advisors: “He said, how about media?”	245
7-4	Tuition Fees: “I think everyone is quite nervous”	251
7-5	Student Experience and Engagement: “At the sharp end”	269
8	Discussion of the Findings and Conclusions
8-1	Introduction	275
8-2	Summary of Analyses	277
8-3	Limitations of the Study	284
8-4	Conclusions	289
8-5	Contribution to Practice and Suggested Further Investigations	296
	References	299
Appendix 1	Participant Overview	321
Appendix 2	Project Information Sheet for Participants	323
Appendix 3	Interview Consent Form	325
Appendix 4	Example of Interviewer prompts	327
Appendix 5	Faculty Ethics Committee Approval	329
Appendix 6	Example Full Interview Transcript	331

List of Figures

Figure 1-1	Original Course Description, BA Media Studies, 1975	14
Figure 1-2	UK Undergraduate Media Students by Country of Study, 2011-12	18
Figure 1-3	English Undergraduate Media Students by University Mission Group, 2011-12	19
Figure 1-4	Average Number of Media Students per Institution by Mission Group, 2011-12	22
Figure 1-5	Media Course Titles Vocabulary Word Cloud, 2011	24
Figure 5-1	Backpack to Briefcase Poster	116
Figure 5-2	Frontispiece to Evidence as to Man's Place in Nature	116